

Dr. Glenn Nielsen, St. George's University Hospital

Glenn Nielsen is a clinical and research neurological physiotherapist at St George's University of London and St George's University Hospital, where he leads a specialist NHS physiotherapy service for functional motor disorder. He is currently leading a multicenter, single-blind, randomised controlled trial of specialist physiotherapy for functional motor disorder (physio4FMD.org) and an NIHR-funded observational study of functional somatosensory symptoms.